BRICKER REFUSES STAY

Wealthy Landowner And Wife Murdered With Club In Own Home

COLUMBUS, April 27 - The staying of a Marion county couple was expiated today by the execution in Ohio penitentiary last night of Harvey Roush, tenant

Electrocution of Roush, who was pronounced dead at 8:05 p. m., resulted from his conviction of the murder of Homer T. Myers, wealthy farmer. Police contended that Roush went to the Myers home a year ago, forced the man to cancel a note for $1,400, then shot and clubbed the couple before setting the home on fire.

Governor Bricker refused to grant a last minute reprieve yesterday. More than 100 spectators were in the death chamber last night when Roush walked in.

Sitting with head bowed, Roush muttered "Thou Shalt Not Kill" several times before he died.

Prior to the execution, Roush's widow and several children visited his cell to bid him goodbye. He had four daughters and three

Dages From the Diary of an

Antiquated Reporter: About the ville at the usual hour, noting with regret that the gorgeous magnolia trees are fast dropping their blossoms. Walked into the W. E. Crist yard to inspect those beautiful two-colored tulips, quite the finest I have seen. Bowed to Scoot Roof, passed the time of day with Doctor Shane at the post and noted Carl Leist, the barrister, enroute home with a set of new garden tools. Gardens, I know, are fun for those who like them, but I can buy my vegetables cheaper than I can raise them. I recall one year in the northern part of the state when I paid $3 to have the garden spaded and raked, put $1.45 worth of seed in the ground, added greatly to my water bill, bought a pair of canvas gloves to prevent blisters, tracked up the house and heard about it, left a rake and hoe out one night and the next morning they were missing. But the harvest was something. One gathering of radishes that

A bakery truck pulled up in front of the Brunner jewelry store and the attendant left the back doors open when he left to deliver an order. Up came a Circleville Ice Co. wagon, drawn by a horse. The horse stood about five feet away and soon caught the odor from the bakery truck. He moved forward, in went his head and was not removed until the bakery man returned. Then that horse looked as though he had been in a pie eating contest, but he was happy. Pie for breakfast. Bet that never happened to him be-which was inserted the square lead. Then a narrow strip of wood was inserted in the groove over the lead. Harp Van Riper, the famed writing teacher, who is near 90, says that he never saw anything like it. Frank sharpened the pencil for me and I tried to write with it, but the lead was too hard. Probably hardened through the long years, for the size of the lead indicates that at one time it was really soft.

About the ville most folk still talk of the possibility of war and the concensus of opinion is that international strife is not far away. In the evening did read the third of a series of articles written by a former Russian general in the secret service of the Red government, and found it most interesting, while at the same time injecting a new probability into the muddled European situation. One man's guess is as good as another these days, but mine is that war is not far away and that we will be foolish enough to be drawn into it.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour Dages From the Diary of an

Antiquated Reporter: About the ville at the usual hour, noting with regret that the gorgeous magnolia trees are fast dropping their blossoms. Walked into the W. E. Crist yard to inspect those beautiful two-colored tulips, quite the finest I have seen. Bowed to Scoot Roof, passed the time of day with Doctor Shane at the post and noted Carl Leist, the barrister, enroute home with a set of new garden tools. Gardens, I know, are fun for those who like them, but I can buy my vegetables cheaper than I can raise them. I recall one year in the northern part of the state when I paid $3 to have the garden spaded and raked, put $1.45 worth of seed in the ground, added greatly to my water bill, bought a pair of canvas gloves to prevent blisters, tracked up the house and heard about it, left a rake and hoe out one night and the next morning they were missing. But the harvest was something. One gathering of radishes that about a dime's worth of toma-

Met Inwood Smith, the former great O. S. U. guard, who was in the ville briefly. A bakery truck pulled up in front of the Brunner jewelry store and the attendant left the back doors open when he left to deliver an order. Up came a Circleville Ice Co. wagon, drawn by a horse. The horse stood about five feet away and soon caught the odor from the bakery truck. He moved forward, in went his head and was not removed until bakery man returned. Then that horse looked as though he had been in a pie eating contest, but he was happy. Pie for breakfast. Bet that never happened to him be-

Stopped for a chat with Frank Heffner and he showed me a pencil that is at least a hundred years old, found in a trunk that belonged to his grandfather, Henry Heffner, Round it was with a groove were too hot to handle and cut down the side and into which was inserted the square lead. Then a narrow strip of wood was inserted in the groove over the lead. Harp Van Riper, the famed writing teacher, who is near 90, says that he never saw anything like it. Frank sharpened the pencil for me and I tried to write with it, but the lead was too hard. Probably hardened through the long years, for the size of the lead indicates that at one time it was really soft. * * *

About the ville most folk still talk of the possibility of war and the concensus of opinion is that international strife is not far away. In the evening did read the third of a series of articles written by a former Russian general in the secret service of the Red government, and found it most interesting, while at the same time injecting a new probability into the muddled European situation. One man's guess is as good as another these days, but mine is that war is not far away and that we will be foolish enough to be drawn into it.

Annual Stooge Frolic Attracts 100 Couples

School Athletic Fund Benefits From Dance

Attractive decorations of th club colors of red and white formed the pleasing setting for the Stooge Club dance, Wednesday, at Memorial Hall. A false ceiling of red and white streamers and the stage decorations of the same, centered with the large emblem of the club were the colorful details for the arrangement.

More than 100 couples, including high school students, faculty, and the younger social set of Circleville enjoyed the dancing which moved along at a quick tempo. The Casa Rey orchestra played an outstanding program of dance music throughout the evening. Contrary to the usual order, the red satin shirts of the Stooge Club members outshown the frocks of the girls. Snappy suits and dainty Spring frocks were worn at the informal affair. The real business of the evening was dancing, and strange and wonderful were the steps presented by the more sophisticated of the group.

The dance was arranged by the club for the benefit of the athletics of the school.

Ordinance Governing Peddler To Be Scanned By Two Of Members

Plans for a sales promotion program to stimulate business in Circleville, especially during the middle of coming weeks, will be announced soon by the Circleville Retail Merchants association.

The proposition was discussed at a special meeting held Wednesday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Herman Hill, president of the organization, appointed Karl Mason, J. H. Limback and Howard McKee as a committee to work out arrangements for a sales promotion program and report at the next meeting to be held Tuesday,

May 2. A committee consisting of C. E. Little and Carl Hunter was appointed to study regulations concerning peddler's in Circleville and report at the next meeting.

The meeting of the retail merchants was the first held for the meeting to continue the orcooperate with the Chamber of Commerce but decided against NORWALK, CONN. making the retail merchants organization a part of the Chamber of Commerce.
